San Francisco International Airport – Response to CSC Conditional Approval

Airfield Program: DHRPSC0004625
CSC Approval: Conditional Approval

In response to the Civil Service Commission's (CSC) conditional approval under DHRPSC0004625, San Francisco International Airport (SFO) respectfully submits the following clarifications regarding the Airfield Program's scope and the Airport's ongoing efforts to recruit and retain design and inspection professionals.

1. Description of the Airfield Program

The SFO Airfield Program encompasses three essential infrastructure projects scheduled between 2024 and 2029. These projects are critical to ensure safety, operational efficiency, and compliance with Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) standards.

Taxiway Z Rehabilitation Project

This project will rehabilitate Taxiway Z and portions of Taxiway S, both of which serve as major aircraft corridors between terminals, cargo, and maintenance areas. Work includes full-depth pavement reconstruction, drainage system upgrades, replacement of lighting and signage, refreshed pavement markings, and installation of a new electrical power duct bank to improve resiliency and safety.

Runway 1R-19L Rehabilitation and Taxiway W Construction Project

This project will restore pavement integrity across Runway 1R-19L and adjacent taxiways, while upgrading drainage and lighting systems. It also includes the realignment and renaming of Taxiway F1 to Taxiway W to meet modern FAA geometry standards, reduce congestion, and improve overall airfield efficiency.

Taxiways E and J Realignment Project

Located in FAA-designated Hot Spot 1, this project will eliminate complex geometry in one of the Airport's highest-traffic areas. Improvements include the realignment of Taxiways E and J, simplified taxiway intersections, enhanced signage, and updated markings, all designed to mitigate pilot confusion, reduce runway incursion risks, and improve safety for aircraft maneuvering.

Together, these projects represent essential investments in maintaining the integrity and safety of SFO's airfield, while aligning with FAA guidance and national best practices.

2. Progress in Hiring Design and Inspection Professionals

SFO recognizes that staffing capacity is a critical component of successfully delivering these federally regulated projects. Over the past five years, the Airport has faced significant challenges due to attrition, particularly from retirements and the highly competitive labor market for aviation-experienced professionals. Despite these challenges, SFO has made measurable progress:

Engineering Positions

- New Hires/Promotions: Thirty-one engineers hired or promoted within the past three years, including transfers from other City departments.
- Pending Approvals: Sixteen engineering positions are pending approval at the Mayor's Budget Office or are queued for submittal.
- Departures: Twenty-one engineers departed SFO during the same period.
- Prop F Outreach: Three retired engineers were contacted to return under Proposition F; however, the interest in returning was low.

• Inspection Positions

- o New Hires: Three inspectors hired over the past three years.
- Pending Approvals: Four inspector positions are currently pending approval with the Mayor's Budget Office.
- Departures: Five inspectors have left or transferred to other City departments.
- Active Recruitment: One experienced inspector is expected to transfer from SFMTA to SFO, and junior staff are being actively trained to expand the pool of qualified inspectors for future airfield projects.

SFO formally submitted a request to fill four (4) 6318 Construction Inspector positions. Two (2) of the four (4) positions have been filled. The other two (2) positions are currently going through the hiring process.

3. Commitment to Capacity and Compliance

SFO remains fully committed to building internal staffing capacity, reducing reliance on external resources over time, and ensuring uninterrupted delivery of critical FAA-regulated airfield projects. Where internal staffing gaps persist, SFO will strategically leverage consultant support to maintain project schedules, uphold safety standards, and comply with federal requirements.

By prioritizing both near-term hiring efforts and long-term workforce development, SFO is addressing CSC's concerns while safeguarding the Airport's ability to deliver these essential infrastructure projects.
