Dear Commission Streamlining Task Force,

The San Francisco Film Commission was created in 1988 by city ordinance and has, for nearly four decades, played a vital role in supporting and sustaining a thriving media production industry in our city.

The dedication of past and present commissioners has helped foster an industry that brings significant economic growth to San Francisco. Their work has not only attracted global media productions but has also ensured that the benefits of this industry are felt locally.

Our small businesses, vendors, and—most importantly—our skilled labor workforce directly benefit from the Commission's efforts. From electricians and grips to costume designers and location scouts, the Commission's advocacy of film production translates into real, well-paying jobs for San Franciscans. These are union jobs that sustain livelihoods and contribute to the city's economic resilience.

Given the Commission's demonstrated impact and longstanding service to the city, I strongly recommend that it remain as it is and not be merged with another Commission. Its continued independence is essential to maintaining the momentum and integrity of San Francisco's film industry.

Thank you for your attention, consideration, and time.

Tony Delorio
