Dear Commission Streamlining Task Force,

San Francisco has far too many commissions which has created confusion, duplication, and waste. Other cities manage with far fewer and deliver better results for residents. Commissions are a detract from city's main job: to deliver services to residents.

I urge you to take bold action and eliminate as many commissions as possible. Streamlining our government is the only way to restore accountability, cut bureaucracy, and make City Hall work for the people again.

Sincerely,
Jason Friedrichs
San Francisco Resident
