

Local Hiring Policy for Construction

ANNUAL REPORT

2026

Letter from the Mayor

San Francisco is a city on the rise, and our economic momentum is being driven by the hands of our local workforce.

From my first day in office, we got to work setting the conditions for San Francisco's recovery. That includes building the housing and infrastructure our future demands.

Last year, we passed the Family Zoning plan because we knew San Francisco needed to make room for more housing—near transit and on our commercial corridors—so the next generation of San Franciscans could afford to raise their children in the city. We launched the PermitSF initiative to cut red tape and bring down the time and cost it takes to build. And we recently announced the most significant affordable housing investment in San Francisco's history by committing to expand the affordable housing trust fund.

As San Francisco rises, so does its need for a skilled, dedicated workforce. The 2026 Annual Report on the Local Hiring Policy for Construction demonstrates how this framework acts as a powerful engine for economic mobility.

To ensure our residents capture this historic volume of work, CityBuild continues to serve as the premier pipeline connecting local talent to the trades, deploying job-ready apprentices into the field.

I want to thank the contractors, labor unions, community organizations, and our city departments for their relentless partnership. Together, we are engineering the economic foundation for San Francisco's next great chapter.

Daniel Lurie
46th Mayor of the City and County of San Francisco

ABOUT US

WORKFORCE

The Workforce Development Division is San Francisco's workforce strategist. By analyzing data and convening key industries, we design future-ready training and coordinate policies that align local talent with our economy. We provide more than jobs; we provide access to meaningful careers.

LOCAL HIRING

The Local Hiring Policy is recognized as one of the strongest pieces of legislation in the country to promote the utilization of resident hiring on locally sponsored construction contracts. Under the Policy, the local hiring requirement is 30% by trade and 50% for apprentices.

CITYBUILD

CityBuild ensures San Francisco is built by the people who live here. Our graduates construct the iconic landmarks, housing, and infrastructure that define our city. From paving streets to shaping the skyline, we supply the skilled workforce necessary to build and maintain the City.

CONSTRUCTION BACK ON THE RISE

San Francisco is a city on the rise. Cranes are reemerging across the skyline, as construction makes a comeback to our neighborhoods. The Local Hiring Policy continues to ensure that local residents have access to meaningful careers and opportunities to revitalize this City.

KEY HIGHLIGHTS FOR 2025

- ↑ Local hiring percentages are at their highest since 2018
- ↑ Overall increase of work hours on public works projects by 11%, or 434,732 hours
- ↑ 35% of all work hours were performed by local residents, up 5% from the previous year
- ↑ 53% of all apprentice hours were performed by local workers, an increase of 8%

"As an SF Native, I have always wanted to help build the city that I am honored to call home."

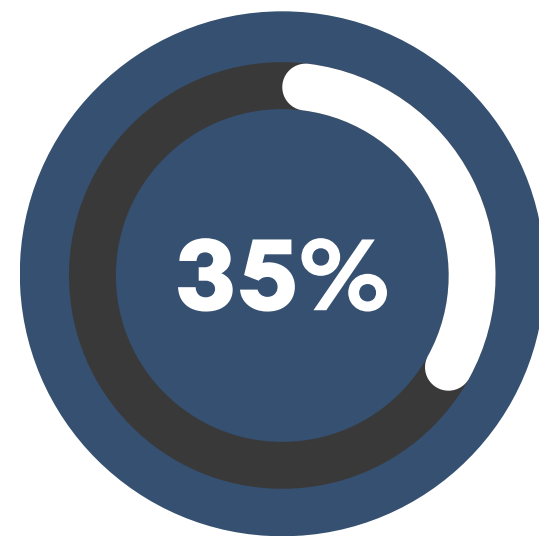

*- Kathalyn Dominguez,
CityBuild Graduate and Local 6 member*

CITYBUILD

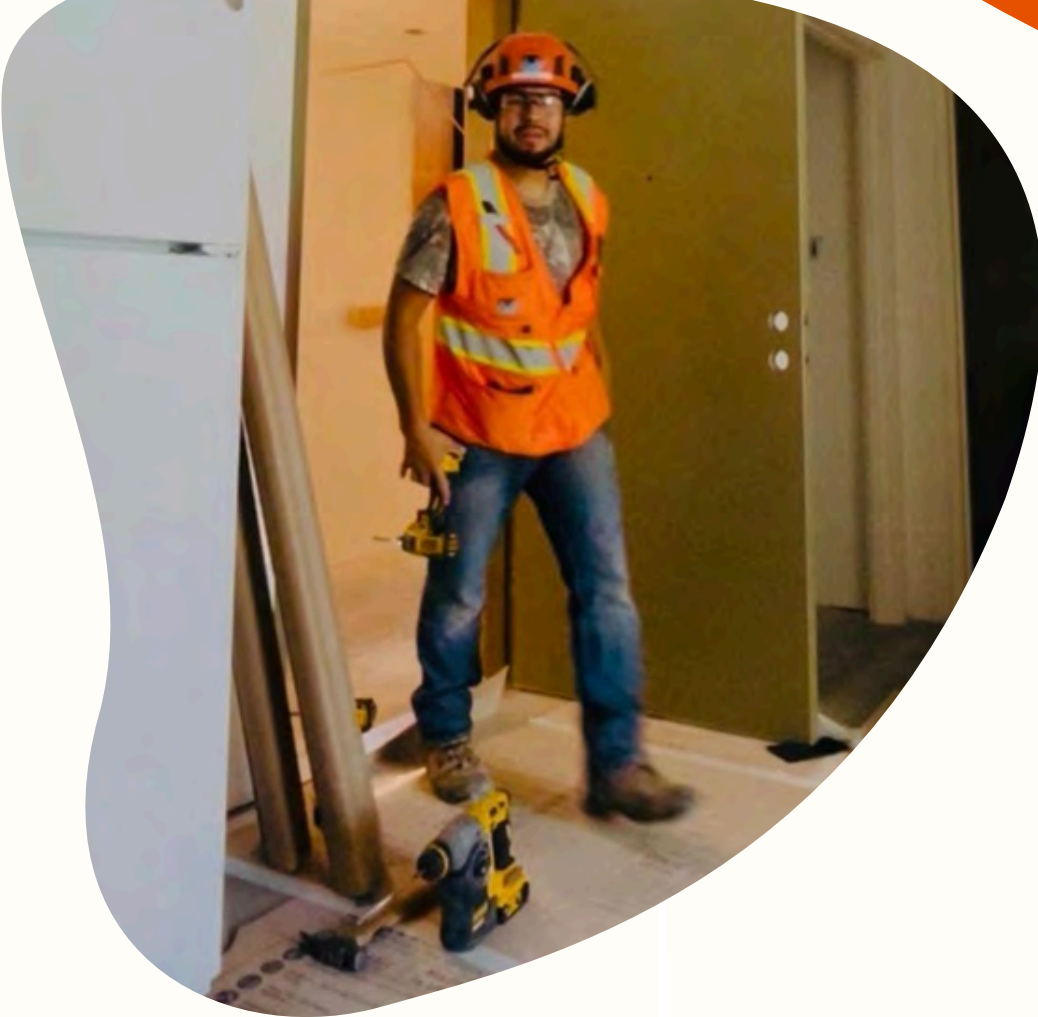

CityBuild Academy offers a 12-week pre-apprenticeship and construction skills training program in partnership with City College of San Francisco. Trainees learn foundational skills, obtain industry-recognized certifications and gain knowledge to enter the construction trades.

The Construction Administration and Professional Services Academy is an 18-week training, placement, and career development program designed to equip San Francisco residents with the skills needed for success in construction administration.

Since 2006, 1,775 San Francisco residents have graduated from CityBuild Academy and special trainings, and 1,522 graduates have secured employment in various construction trades. Through CAPSA, 504 residents have completed training and 310 were connected to careers in construction administration and professional services.

For 20 years, CityBuild has changed lives and strengthened families—building healthier communities and expanding our city's middle class.

- Speaker Emerita Nancy Pelosi

Oseas Hernandez, CityBuild Cycle 41

Joining CityBuild Cycle 41 was one of the best decisions I've ever made - it gave me the foundation, skills, and confidence to start a career in the construction trades. After graduating, I began working as a stocker scraper for about 11 months, then later joined Swinerton Builders, where I became a carpenter and moved into their door division, a craft I'm truly passionate about. I'm proud of how far I've come and motivated to keep growing and becoming the best I can be within the company.

CityBuild has set the standard for how government, labor, and the private sector can come together to open the door to new careers and expand the workforce that builds and maintains our city. CityBuild delivers impact directly to our neighbors and communities that need it most.

- Mayor Daniel Lurie

CityBuild's Employment Liaisons provide personalized support to local residents pursuing careers in the construction industry. At CityBuild Academy, liaisons help guide students towards employment that aligns with industry needs. The team also provides support to active workers seeking their next opportunity on local projects.

Through the Local Hiring Policy, CityBuild's policy team analyzes employer engagement with local residents. By partnering with contractors and local unions, CityBuild's workforce analysts identify job opportunities for San Francisco residents.

In 2025, the CityBuild program reviewed 549 contracts on 319 projects for hiring opportunities.

Gladys Livié, CAPSA graduate

Gladys Livié moved from rural Mississippi to the Bayview–Hunters Point neighborhood in search of greater opportunity. After a successful career in healthcare, Gladys was faced with the challenge of starting a new career while supporting her family. She enrolled in CAPSA and embraced the steep learning curve in her transition from healthcare to construction. She rapidly developed construction admin skills and regained her confidence as a professional. Her determination paid off, and she ultimately accepted a position with Turner Construction as an Assistant Engineer.

ANALYSIS

OEWD reviewed certified payroll records entered into LCPtracker, the City's project reporting system, between January 1, 2025, and December 31, 2025, on projects covered by the Local Hiring Policy.

Data reported in 2026 indicates that the construction industry in San Francisco is experiencing moderate growth, particularly among affordable housing and large-scale, long-term capital projects.

While local work hours represent an increased percentage of the overall hours reported, the local job market still faces labor shortages in certain trades and sectors that require additional training in specialized skills.
