Airport Electrical Capacity Upgrade Project (formerly PSC #45444-23/24)

Dear Ms. Eng:

At the Civil Service Commission (Commission) meeting on May 20, 2024, the Commission approved DHRPSC0004371 for Project Management Support Services and design services related to the Airport Electrical Capacity Upgrade Project (PSC #45444-23/24), with the requirement that the Airport provide additional information in a follow-up report to the Commission.

Attached is the Airport's report following up with the information requested by the Commission. We understand that this meets the Commission requirements at this time.

Feel free to contact me at (650) 821-5324 should you have any further questions.

Very Truly Yours,

Additional Information as Requested by the Civil Service Commission for DHRPSC0004371, Project Management Support Services, and design services related to the Airport Electrical Capacity Upgrade Project (formerly PSC #45444-23/24)

Background

The Airport Substation Transformer Upgrade Project (Project) is a collaboration between the San Francisco International Airport (Airport) and the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission (SFPUC). The SFPUC supplies Hetch Hetchy-generated power to the Airport through SFPUC-owned substations located on the West of Bayshore property, including the Airport Substation, the Project site. The Airport Substation interconnects to high-voltage Pacific Gas and Electric (PG&E) transmission lines. SFPUC power is transmitted through the PG&E high-voltage transmission lines at 115 kiloVolts (kV), and transformers convert the voltage to 12kV medium voltage power, which SFPUC then supplies to the Airport for distribution and use.

This Project focuses on the high-voltage interconnect and will replace the two existing transformers with three new transformers, along with upgraded switchgear and supporting electrical systems and protection. The Project will increase electrical capacity and improve the reliability of the power supply to the Airport.

On May 20, 2024, the Civil Service Commission approved DHRPSC0004371 (PSC #45444-23/24) for Project Management Support Services (PMSS) for the Airport Electrical Capacity Upgrade Project and requested the Airport to provide a response explaining the division of labor between in-house staff and the PMSS Consultant.

Airport's Response

Division of Labor

Airport staff determined that the services provided under this PMSS contract will not be distributed between the consultant and in-house staff. The PMSS consultant will fully perform these services. Additional information is provided below explaining the roles and responsibilities of city staff at the Airport and SFPUC.

Roles and Responsibilities

The Airport's Project Manager is responsible for overseeing and managing the project's scope, schedule, and budget and managing PMSS consultant services and builder construction contracts to ensure successful delivery. To support the Airport Project Manager, the PMSS consultant will provide specialized high-voltage technical expertise in electrical systems and project management. Their services will include design and construction management, project controls, contract administration, cost estimating, and specialized high-voltage field inspections and commissioning. The required high-voltage expertise is beyond the experience of in-house Airport or SFPUC personnel.

Airport personnel operate and maintain the 12kV medium voltage electrical distribution system. SFPUC personnel will maintain the Airport Substation transformers upon project completion. Airport and SFPUC engineering and electrical field staff will serve as key stakeholders and owners of the high-voltage substation, respectively.

As a team, the Airport Project Manager will oversee project delivery, coordination, and stakeholder engagement with the support of the PMSS consultant. The PMSS consultant will provide technical oversight and expertise throughout the project to support Airport and SFPUC stakeholders and ensure the successful execution of the project.

Conclusion

The Electrical Capacity Upgrade Project at the Airport Substation will increase electrical capacity and improve the reliability of the power supply at the Airport. Because of the highly specialized high-voltage expertise required for this critical infrastructure project, which is not the experience of in-house Airport or SFPUC personnel, the Airport requires a strategic staffing approach to ensure project success. Consequently, the Airport will engage a PMSS consultant to meet immediate project demands. While leveraging specialized expertise, the Airport is committed to building institutional knowledge. Airport and SFPUC staff will be trained and activated through the project handover to own and operate the Airport Substation after project completion. This strategic approach ensures the successful execution of this critical infrastructure project while strengthening the Airport and SFPUC's capacity to own and operate critical substation assets for the City in the long term.
