The community input subcommittee looks at meaningful engagement between community and SDDTAC to ensure that community voices are heard when making budget recommendations based on community needs. The subcommittee understands the disproportionate health impact on communities from sugary drink consumption. Various mechanisms have been employed in the past by this subcommittee, mainly looking at the bi-directional flow of communication from community to the SDDTAC. Each SDDTAC member serves and uplifts the voices of the constituents they are representing on the committee. Today we can discuss are there other networks and spaces members are aware of or part of to share SDDT information. SDDT one pager document can be shared with others to be delivered to inform others of soda tax in SF and its advisory committee.

Member shared that they were invited to Chicano/Indigena/Latino health equity coalition and hoping to share information with that group.
