HOUSING

S.F. has nearly 150 sites on public land that could be housing. Here's where they're located

San Francisco Chronicle, September 29th 2026

A vacant lot in the Sunset. A seven-floor parking garage that spans an entire city block. An abandoned City College building in the Tenderloin.

A new report from San Francisco officials takes stock of the city's 37 million square feet of public property and provides a starting point for leveraging that real estate portfolio to help meet housing goals. It identified 147 properties that could be ripe for redevelopment.

San Francisco built more than 2,000 affordable units and 1,475 market-rate units on public sites over the past 11 years. More than 19,000 additional homes are under construction or in the pre-development phase on public sites, including major projects on Treasure Island and at Candlestick Point, according to the report.

INFRASTRUCTURE

Bay Skyway to connect Bay Bridge East Span Path to Treasure Island, San Francisco

Antioch Herald, September 17th 2026

A team is working to extend both ends of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge East Span Path into a broader network called the "Bay Skyway" that will link Oakland and the greater East Bay with Treasure Island and downtown San Francisco.

Every year, thousands of residents and visitors enjoy the path on the East Span of the Bay Bridge, a 15-foot-wide walking and biking path with panoramic views of San Francisco Bay. The path joins Berkeley and Emeryville with Yerba Buena Island with a bus connection and private ferry service to downtown San Francisco. The Bay Skyway project will extend the path in both directions, linking Oakland and the greater East Bay with Treasure Island and downtown San Francisco.

Business Briefing: Castro's Sui Generis announces china anniversary plans

Bay Area Reporter, September 4th 2026

...Later this month, longtime gay-owned Castro clothing store Entour at 2319 Market Street will be closing after 20 years due to financial pressure it has faced because of the Trump tariffs. Meanwhile, screen printer Danae Lintz on September 26 is closing down her Fave location at 329 Noe Street just off Market Street and the Queer Mall for local vendors in the back of the storefront.

Lintz, who is lesbian and queer, is relocating her business to Treasure Island, where she's lived for nearly 17 years. The print shop will be at 1 Avenue of the Palms in Suite 6 on the manmade island in the middle of San Francisco Bay.

"We loved our time in the Castro – printing your orders, hosting events, and showcasing incredible queer art. We're closing this space to focus on what we do best: creating fun wearable art for queers," explained Lintz in a note she attached to the window of her storefront. "Screen printing moves to Treasure Island, FAVE merch stays on our site and at markets."

I was mesmerised by how the fog turned the tower into a monolith': Derek Zhao's best phone picture

Guardian, September 26th 2026

Every morning, Derek Zhao jogs the perimeter of Treasure Island, his home, situated an eight-minute ferry ride from San Francisco. "It's an endless source of frustration for me that I can't bring my cameras with me," he says. "When the island gifts me its beautiful scenes, I should be grateful that phones have pretty decent cameras, too."

Zhao works as a machine-learning engineer at Disney California. He relocated from Texas last year to take up the role, finding the 400-acre human-made island to be the perfect location, "close enough to the office and all the culture the city has to offer, but far enough that I'm waking up to the sound of seagulls instead of car horns".

These SF events will help make a fun transition from summer to fall

SF Examiner, September 6th 2026

The days are getting shorter, but San Francisco's social calendar this week still has room for plenty of fun.

Here are some of the top events to check out over the next seven days in The City...

Off the Grid: Treasure Island (Saturday)

San Francisco's outdoor food market is back for another season of festivities at Cityside Park. More than 15 vendors will sell cultural dishes and other treats, while guests will also be able to sign up for a complimentary kite-making program. The event will run from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Attendees can RSVP on Instagram, sign up for the online Treasure Island Social Club, or scan a QR code at the Ferry Building to receive free service to the island.

Once a 1930s Pan Am flying boat terminal and 'Indiana Jones' set, this historic Treasure Island building is now home to a glamorous Art Deco craft whiskey bar with sweeping Golden Gate views

Secret San Francisco, September 3rd 2026

San Francisco has no shortage of historic bars, but this one comes with a rather unexpected backstory. The Treasure Island venue occupies The Administration Building, the former Pan Am Airport Terminal, a striking 1930s building that once welcomed passengers heading across the Pacific by flying boat. Yes, you read that right. Flying boat.

Today, the space has been transformed into an Art Deco-inspired whiskey tasting room, but traces of its glamorous aviation past remain. And if the building looks vaguely familiar, there's a good reason: it has also had a starring role in a major Hollywood blockbuster.

Treasure Island accident snarls traffic, blocks access to island

KRON 4, September 1st 2026

A crash involving a tractor trailer on San Francisco's Treasure Island snarled traffic for hours and blocked access to the island from eastbound and westbound I-80. As of 2:15 p.m., all lanes had reopened and access to the island was restored, Caltrans said.

The California Highway Patrol had earlier reported a severe traffic alert. Motorists were advised to expect delays, use alternate routes and avoid the area.

Cherry picker falls off flatbed truck on Yerba Buena Island, limiting access from Bay Bridge

ABC 7, September 1st 2026

A crash involving what appears to be a cherry picker limited access to Yerba Buena Island on Monday morning, prompting the closure of Bay Bridge offramps to the island.

The crash happened around 8:45 a.m. on Macalla Road, and SKY7 video showed the cherry picker that had fallen off a flatbed truck, blocking a significant portion of the road. The incident led police to close the offramps from the Bay Bridge to Yerba Buena Island. Traffic backed up on the bridge, though the disruption to the commute appeared to be minimal. It was not immediately clear when the offramps would reopen. Caltrans is working to clear the crash scene.

Learn about Treasure Island on "I Left My Podcast in San Francisco"

Sheela Jivan, Executive Director of the Treasure Island Development Authority (TIDA), joins host Franco Finn for a wide-ranging conversation about San Francisco's emerging waterfront community.

Part of the City Administrator's Office, TIDA manages the effort that has added more than 1,200 new market-rate and affordable homes to Treasure Island and Yerba Buena Island, with future plans including approximately 7,000 additional units of housing, both affordable and market-rate, and hundreds of more acres of parks and open space.

A 7-hour waterfront jazz festival with scenic San Francisco views is coming to Treasure Island this weekend

Secret San Francisco, September 18th 2026

This Sunday, the Treasure Island waterfront will be filled with live music, local vendors, and craft cocktails. A local distillery is hosting a 7-hour jazz festival on the island, complete with beautiful waterfront views and numerous performers.

Ripley's Believe It or Not! on San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf announces closure

CBS News, September 22nd 2026

A longtime fixture on Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, Ripley's Believe it or Not! announced that the museum would close before the end of the year...

In a statement, Pattison noted founder Robert Ripley's long ties to San Francisco, which included working at the San Francisco Bulletin newspaper over a century ago and his exhibitions at the Golden Gate International Exposition in 1939 and 1940 on Treasure Island.
