Heads Up: Phishing Emails Targeting City Suppliers

We want to make sure the small business community is aware of a phishing campaign in which fraudulent emails impersonate City employees and are sent to businesses that work with the City. The City is aware of this activity and is actively addressing it.

These emails may ask recipients to send a payment or click a link in order to "maintain compliance with City requirements." The sender names and email domains are designed to closely resemble the City's, so they can look legitimate at first glance.

A few simple precautions:

- Don't click links or open attachments in emails that seem suspicious.
- Don't send money or payment information based solely on an emailed request. Verify first by contacting the sender at a phone number or email address you have previously confirmed.
- Don't use contact information from the suspicious email to verify it. Details in a fraudulent message may lead straight back to the sender.

If you receive a suspicious email, please report it to ReportScam@sf.gov. Thank you for your continued partnership and for staying alert.

Prepare for Potential El Nino Storms this winter

Take proactive steps to protect their operations, employees, and customers from flooding, power outages, and other weather-related disruptions.

Additional resiliency resources are available on the Office of Small Business website, and the San Francisco Small Business Development Center also offers comprehensive tools to help businesses strengthen their preparedness.

Steps you can take now:

- Prepare for power outages. Keep flashlights, fresh batteries and essential supplies accessible.
- Elevate inventory in basements or low levels, secure loose outdoor objects before high winds.
- Get sandbags if your business is prone to flooding. Public Works offers San Francisco businesses up to 10 free sandbags per address year-round, with Sandbag Saturday events planned for November. Bring proof of a San Francisco business address. Check sfpublicworks.org/sandbags for current information.
- Ask your insurance agent about flood insurance now, including contents coverage for renters. National Flood Insurance Program policies typically have a 30-day waiting period before coverage begins. See if your business is in an area prone to flooding in severe storms. SFPUC's Rain Ready resources explain more.
- Sign up for AlertSF. Text your ZIP code to 888-777 or go to AlertSF.org.
- Stay informed. Check NWS Bay Area forecasts and warnings at weather.gov/mtr, and visit sf.gov/storms for city guidance.
